Gilead to vote on leaner budget

By ALISON ALOISIO

Gilead residents will see a significant drop in the town's municipal appropriation if they approve all the warrant articles at Saturday's Town Meeting.

This year's proposal is $168,074, compared to 2015's $192,574, according to the town report.

Absent from the 2016 budget is $20,000 raised last year for road maintenance and $10,000 for equipment repair, as well as $23,000 raised separately at a special Town Meeting for a fire truck, said Town Clerk Lin Chapman.

This year an additional $5,000 is proposed to cover the town's share of Social Security and Medicare, Chapman said. "We were working off a surplus in that account," she said, and no money was raised last year for it.

Another $500 is proposed for the Cemetery Fund this year, which would bring that total to $2,000.

Among larger town accounts, money proposed for the Fire Department ($28,000), insurance ($26,000), office salaries ($26,500), Public Ways and Bridges ($15,000) and Transfer Station Operation ($21,000) remains steady.

In municipal elections, seats held by Selectman Steve McLain and School Director Ann Choquette are up for

The meeting starts at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Woodstock to weigh property purchases

By ALISON ALOISIO

Woodstock residents will gather Monday, March 28 for their annual Town Meeting to consider a municipal budget of $1,698,009.

Although the town's 2016 Capital Improvement spending proposal is $127,000 higher than last year's figure of $110,000. the recommended use of funds from several revenue accounts means the increase in the amount to be raised from taxes would be held to about

New proposed capital expenditures include a property purchase for a new boat landing on North Pond ($90,000); new fire truck payment ($30,000); new plow truck ($67,000);

One-way, alternating traffic on the Route 2 bridge over the Androscoggin River in Bethel started last week. It is expected to continue for six months as contractor Wyman & Simpson Inc. does major improvement work on the span. Here, eastbound traffic crosses the bridge on Monday morning under the direction of flaggers. Later in the project an automated traffic light is expected to control the flow of vehicles.

Andover narrowly elects Hutchins as selectman; dashes through Town Meeting

By MARIANNE HUTCHINSON;

Andover residents elected Sharon Hutchins selectman Tuesday by a close vote of 64-61 over Lucien (Leo) Camire, according to Town Clerk Melinda Averill.

There were two ballot left blank for the selectman vote, she said.

Hutchins will replace the retiring Keith Farrington. Incumbent school directors Lindsay Sharkey and Linda Putnam were reelected unopposed.

TOWN MEETING At Saturday's annual Town Meeting, residents voted to change to a two-bill tax cycle after a lengthy discussion. But it was one of the few time-consuming articles, as townspeople got through the warrant in what some said was record time - only half a

Selectman Jim Adler told residents that under the tax bill proposal, instead of getting one bill they would receive two smaller ones.

He said taxes are increasing because the town now runs the Andover school, since it left SAD 44.

"I think we're all feeling the crunch," he said. "Another thing is [that] we're having a hard time with cash flow because of the school budget; we're paying out more each month and we're not seeing that payment coming in until maybe the end of the year."

Resident Sid Pew said he thought a more appropriate route would be to change the fiscal year to coincide with state government and the school system, instead of sending out separate tax bills. Pew also asked what the purpose was of residents getting two bills. "We felt this was less impact to the town," Adler > said. The town needs help, he said, and having two bills would aid with cash flow and be less complicated than changing the fiscal year. Selectman Jane Rich said that selectmen were only thinking of two things: "convenience for people and cash flow."

Adler said he had spoken to an attorney about the tax bill plan.

"It is two bills; if you don't pay the first one you're going to get interest incurred. And, this is not fjust! to talk about it this, [but] to implement this, so you guys can have this ready for this year."

Following more discussion Adler once again stated the town needed help from the residents, saying "If you help us it's going to make everything a lot easier."

The article was eventually passed.

OTHER APPROVALS Among other articles approved were: establishing a committee to research a possible alternative form of government for the town (such as adding a town manager or administrative assistant); raising/ appropriating $2,500 to try to gain legal access to the Cemetery Trust Account);

Barn blends weddings and history

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Samuel Twitchell barn in Mayville has played several roles in its 128-year history.

There was, of course, the original purpose of sheltering hay, equipment and animals. Built in 1888, the New England-style barn (with the main entrance on the gable end) replaced an older structure that had burned. Around 1950 Dana and Barbara Douglass bought the property, and according to some local residents they occasionally offered the barn to host dances for local organizations.

In the early 2000s it was purchased by Tom and Marcey White, who converted to a studio for Tom's well-known sculpting business. Then, in 2013, the barn was bought by Paul Le-Gault, who owns the Gourmet in a Pinch food store and catering business just up the street. He has converted the barn into the 1888 Wedding Barn, and it now hosts brides and grooms as they take their vows and celebrate the beginning of their lives together.

As LeGault began work on the barn, he said one local resident recalled the Douglass dances and commented, "The barn is going to dance again."

LeGault said he has tried to adapt the barn for that purpose with an eye to history, Although such improvements as a commercial kitchen on the second floor on the road side would not meet the stringent requirements to qualify for the National Register of Historic Places, he said, he has preserved and exposed many of the basic features of the barn.

The barn board floors on the upper levels were removed to reveal the barn's structure up to the roof, opening up the space and providing very good acoustics for music, Le-Gault said.

He did most of the work himself. "I stripped the floors down to the major post and beams," he said.

ELECTION PROBLEMS, ROOT CAUSES

To the Editor:

American democracy depends on our ability to elect the people WE want to represent our interests first, be fore those of BIG$$ special interests. Until we can, our future in truly not in our hands. But when we do achieve that, we will again be able to exclude those who enter politics for the wrong reasons. We can then truly solve the plague of problems caused by corporate and special interest corruption in our government.

That concept is now being ridiculed as a "Single Issue Campaign." It is not. Rather, it is a focused attack on the Root Cause for many of our biggest problems. In doing so, we solve the many symptoms of the Root Cause problem. Thoreau once said: "For the thousands hacking at the branches, there may be one working at the root." So far, Mr. Sanders is the only candidate who realizes that and he's been working at it for over 30 years. We citizens must join him in Common Cause to take back our democracy and work harder at it than ever before.

CLIMATE CHANGE OUR FAULT?

To the Editor:

The Feb. 23 Sun Journal has an intriguing article about Antarctica's melting ice pack. This article claims that between 23 and 14 million years ago atmospheric CO2 concentrations were believed to be about 500 parts per million or higher, some 20 percent HIGHER than the 400

I don't believe humans living that long ago were burning all that much carbon generating fuel, so where did all that carbon come from? Was it volcanoes or some other phenomenon? Either way, I don't believe anything humans are doing now is going to affect the global temperature to any extent comparable to natural occurring variations in CO2 levels or other celestial or extraterrestrial events such as variations in the earth's orbit around the sun or things like asteroid collisions.

All this hype about climate change and its threat to our environment is so much rubbish! Climate change has been occurring ever since the creation of the earth, and we are not going to materially change that.

Richard Grover Mason

From the Bethel Town Manager

By Christine M. Landes

As always, it is my pleasure to provide this bi-weekly column for the citizens of Bethel.

Last week, the Budget Committee and Board of Selectmen held a joint meeting to review the proposed FY17 budget. Items that generated the most discussion included: the purchase of a new ambulance, road projects, proposed pay increases for emergency personnel, the Ethel Bisbee school, purchasing a handheld GIS data collection device for use by Planning, Public Works, and the Wastewater Treatment Plant, programs being offered by the Recreation Department, and transferring all of the cable franchise fees to Channel 11. Each budget category was recommended for approval at town meeting. If you have any questions about the budget please do not hesitate to contact the town office.

The Route 2 bridge re-decking project should be in full swing by the time you read this article. The contractor and the state have been very informative with the events happening at the site. When approaching the construction site, please be very aware of the traffic situation. There could be a chance that emergency vehicles are looking to cross on a red light or other vehicles are looking to exit the businesses in the vicinity. Be patient and safe.

Some of you may have heard of the AARP project occurring in our region. It is my understanding that not only has Bethel committed to this, Newry, Greenwood and Woodstock has also. Currently the group is working on a survey to assess transportation needs. I would expect you will see it very soon in your mailbox. If you have any specific needs, questions or concerns regarding AARP or Aging in Place, please reach out to Jackie or Al Cressey.

This past Monday, nominations papers became available at the Town Office. Open positions include; two seats each on the Board of Selectmen, Board of Assessors and School Board. Please see Christen Mason, our Town Clerk for filing deadlines, required number of signatures and any other information surrounding the election in June.

Please remember if there is anything I, or the employees of the town, can do for you please do not hesitate to contact us. We are here for you.

JOIN THE CONSERVATION COMMISSION

To the Editor:

Are you interested in supporting the town's efforts to enhance our environs, to keep track of the health of Bethel's street trees, or to keep the public aware of conservation issues? Then please consider becoming a member of the Bethel Conservation Commission.

The Conservation Commission has a busy year ahead, but needs a new member so that we can carry out our usual responsibilities, as well as take on a major new project. We have received a grant from Project Canopy to conduct a street tree inventory that will help us track the status of the trees that contribute to the beauty of the village and help us plan for future planting.

We meet on the first Wednesday of every month, from 4:30 to 6 p.m., at the Town Office. If you would like more information about what we do, contact Jessie Seymour-Perkins at 824-2282 or jessiesperkins@gmail.com. You can pick up an application form from the Town Office.

Thank you for considering serving your community in this way.

THE AMERICAN WAY

To the Editor:

The Republican argument against Donald Trump is getting very tiresome. I read a post on the Internet the other day that asked the question, "Wouldn't it have been nice if Republicans worked as hard against Obama as they are against Trump?" That, to me, is a very valid question. To any of you who have followed my posts, it's no secret that I didn't and continue not to support President Obama. I don't care for the way he has governed for what will be the last eight years. That having been said, he was elected by the American people. I doubt that there are any of you out there that would disagree with the notion that Congress can't get anything done. Why is that? Could it be that neither side will talk to the other? Could it be that that the "establishment" on both sides simply has forgotten the country in favor of their own political ideology? Donald Trump has said that it is his belief that the way you get something done, is to get the two sides together, lock them in a room and don't let them out until they've come to an agreement.

I remember that President Reagan and Tip O'Neill, two who could not be further apart ideologically, managed to get some governing done. And they got it done in fine shape. To my Republican counterparts, have you not asked yourself the question as to why the "establishment Republicans" are so dead set against Donald Trump? Are there many of you out there who are satisfied with the job the Republicans have been doing in spite of controlling both houses? The Republican primaries and caucuses are showing, without a doubt up to now, that they want Donald Trump to be the nominee. Is it possible that the Republicans have lost sight of "Of, for and by the people?"

Don't let this letter cause you to assume that I'm a Trump supporter. What I am, is a non-supporter of Clinton or Sanders. Have we Republicans become Prairie Dogs and decided to eat our young? The efforts by the sitting Republicans is, at best, unseemly but at worst, self-destructive. There is no question that the Democrats will vote against us...do we really want to vote against ourselves? Unite and vote for the candidate the party's people choose. Not the people sitting in Washington or their choice. The choice is ours. Don't complain about the Democrats. They believe what they believe and that is their right. If you want the right to complain about the government after November ... get out and vote ... otherwise ... be quiet.

Harry Faulkner

OUR FAILED PRESIDENT

To the Editor:

According to the U.S. Treasury in seven years President Obama reduced the deficit by 72 percent. On his first day in office he froze White House salaries. He banned gifts from lobbyists to anyone in the Executive Branch.

By the end of his first year, the economy created and sustained 2.1 million jobs and was stimulated by 3.5 percent. In 2010, more jobs were created than had been created during Bush's eight years. He pushed through and implemented an auto industry rescue plan that saved as many as one million jobs and possibly the entire auto industry

As of January 2016, while battling Republican obstruction at every turn, he had still resided over a record 64 consecutive months of overall job growth. Through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act he cut taxes for 95 percent of America's working families. Tax rates for average working families are the lowest since 1950.

He put an end to the evil and possibly illegal Bush-era stop-loss policy that kept soldiers in Iraq/Afghanistan beyond their enlistment date. He signed and implemented the Veterans Health Care Budget Reform and Transparency Act, making more money available to enable better medical care for veterans. He initiated and signed a recruitment and employment plan to get more veterans into government jobs. He ended one war, nearly ended another, and kept Americans from dying in Syria through shrewd diplomacy. He ended Don't Ask Don't Tell and raised troop pay for the first time in decades. No Republican in the past 40 years has done as much for our economy or our troops (except for offering them opportunities to travel to exotic locales). I could go on all day.

Lepage turns tourism awards lunch at Sunday River into political speech

By Lindsay Tice, Sun Media

Gov. Paul LePage used a state tourism conference's typically light-and-happy awards ceremony as a political platform in Newry Tuesday, calling for everyone in the room to pass the word that current ballot initiatives — including raising the minimum wage - will have a catastrophic effect on the state.

"(Tourism is) a great industry; it's a fun industry, but it's being attacked," he said. "It's being attacked by people that don't like Maine. I hate to call them Bernie Sanders supporters, but ..." He trailed off before commenting on the American Dream and how "nowadays, earning money's a bad thing."

About 400 people attended the awards ceremony and luncheon at the Maine Governor's Conference on Tourism at Sunday River in Newry. The governor's speech was largely met with silence, interspersed at times with nervous laughter and, at the end, polite applause.

During his 18-minute noontime speech, LePage repeatedly lamented negative perceptions of high-earners.

"I never thought I would live in a state where earning a decent living is a bad thing," he said.

Immediately after, he railed against a November ballot initiative that asks voters to pay workers more.

The initiative, backed by the Maine People's Alliance and labor unions, seeks to raise the minimum wage in Maine to $12 an hour by 2020. LePage said raising the minimum wage will cost too much and will hurt businesses, tourism, Mainers on fixed incomes, in-home nursing and young people.

"This is scary stuff," he said.

He called raising the minimum wage "a scam on the Maine people," saying Maine unions want to see an increase because their workers' contracted salaries are tied to minimum wage levels.

"This is to get more money out of your pocket and give it to those who are not willing to keep their nose clean, work hard and achieve," he said. "They just want to sit back and ... get more and more of your money."

He also railed against the high cost but poor results of public education in Maine, high taxes that send Mainers fleeing to Florida, high energy costs, the Maine People's Alliance, and that too few Mainers can afford to buy land on the coast or in other coveted areas.

LePage told the crowd he has lived the American Dream.

"I know what it is to be on the streets of Lewiston, Maine, with no place to go, not knowing if it's going to be a cold night or a warm night," he said. "I know what it is to buy five cans of cat food because a can of tuna is 59 cents and five cans of cat food are a dollar. That's five meals. And then we sit here and we have people who succeed and get out of the poverty and then we have people that are trying to drive us back in because they don't want us to succeed."

He urged audience members to pass on his message.

"Each and every one of you needs to tell 10 people and ask those 10 people to tell 10 people," he said.

LePage acknowledged that his speech was unusual for the annual tourism awards ceremony and luncheon.

"I know you think that, well, this is a happy occasion," he said, adding, "You have to listen to a little bit of reality about where we're headed."

A temporary roadway from the area of the Murphy's driveway to a work site under the bridge has been created. Preliminary work started in the closed west side lane. Saturday was a big ski day at South Ridge and the Western Maine Fly Fishing Expo had a busy day with more than 300 people coming to see the various exhibits. Kathy and I drove up to South Ridge Saturday morning to see what the snow conditions looked like after our rain and warm weather. Basically the skiing areas looked untouched. Arrangements were going on for afternoon entertainment. Our entertainment was watching youngsters getting in their early ski moves on the gentle slope behind the Maine Adaptive Sports and Recreation Center. What we had not seen before was what Steve Wight told me is called the "magic carpet" skier moving sidewalk transporter. There were classes for an adult group going on as well as early learning for the younger

Three hundred + people came to the expo at the Bethel Inn Conference Center Saturday. One of the exhibitors was from New Brunswick - Wilsons Four Season Resort. The nearest exhibitor was the Western Maine Drift Guiding Service form Park Street in Bethel. Orion Outfitters and Guide Service from Mason had a large exhibit. There were a number of fly tying demonstrations to watch. Six presentations made up part of the expo program: One presentation subject was "Lure of Labrador" and another "Flies I Tie and Why." A silent auction was setup in the Conference Center lobby - a lot going on at the show.

Ground was broken and the mill opened in 1958. Overall landing this venture in Bethel was part of a busy year and had received much assistance and encouragement from Bethel's business leaders. It was also the year that the Sunday River Skiway Corp. was formed, Addison Saunders elected president, and the Bethel Area Development Corp. organized. Howard Cole was elected president and seventy-five members joined in the first five weeks. Barker Mountain ski trails were laid out. Dr. John Trinward was elected president of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce. Robert Billings became the new proprietor of the Bethel General Store (where Maine Street Realty is today). This store had been established by Niles Kellogg. (Mr. Kellogg was the supplier of Wirthmore grain feed for my parents' cattle.) Also, Brooks Bros. bought the Clough & Pillsbury hardware store and business in Rumford. The Bethel Theater closed and theater owner Max Zallen announced plans for building a two story motel. And in February Dr. Raymond Tibbetts passed away question received "Hello, we are students at Cascade Middle School in Indiana. We are doing a project with civil war letters in class. We are transcribing them and looking for information about our soldier. The soldier that wrote our letter is Captain Clark S. Edwards. We found out that he had served at the 5th Maine Regiment, and we have a few questions that we were wondering if you can answer. We were wondering if you have any records about his service in the army, how long he served in the regiment or what battles he fought in. If you have any additional information that you think would be helpful for our project that would be very helpful. We hope to get some extra information about him. Thanks, Bella Mahan and Dylan Kottkamp."

Edwards (1824-1903) has a unique place in Bethel history: he organized a volunteer Bethel Rifle Company as the Civil War opened in 1861; he was promoted to Colonel and commanded the 5th Maine Volunteer Regiment which was committed in the Battle of Gettysburg; promoted to Brevet Brigadier General he was mustered out in 1864; he was appointed by the Governor to the Maine Gettysburg Commission and to the Columbia Exposition Commission (World Fair of 1893 in Chicago) and in 1886 was the Maine Democratic Party's candidate for governor. The endar says spring, but winter fighting back. Overnight temperatures dropped into the past week. The lakes and ponds are unsafe but a thin layer of ice has formed again on the boggy areas. The "potential" nor easter that was forecast to hit our area on Monday has veered off to the east and it looks like Washington County is going to get the snow jackpot. As of this morning (Monday, March 21) we have a little less than an inch of snow, from that storm. It's supposed to taper off early this afternoon. Despite my love of snow, that's probably for the best because the crocuses are blooming and the tips of daffodils have pushed through on the road banks with a southern exposure. There will be an Ecumenical Good Friday service at the Bethel United Methodist Church on Friday, March 25, at 12 noon. Pastor Sondra Withey of the Locke's Mills Union Church and Pastor Carol Stevens of the Bethel United Methodist Church will lead the service. The church is located at 79 Main Street.

Every year on the Saturday before Easter the Norway Recreational Department sponsors Easter Fest. On March 26 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., children and their families are invited to participate in an "Easter egg hunt" on Main pers. Street in Norway, The up a map at Norway Memorial Library and then locating the eggs hidden at businesses on Main Street. Easter Fest includes prizes, refreshments, and special events along Main Street. Last year almost a thousand people participated in the event. If your travels on March 26 include a trip to Norway, it is wise to avoid driving in the Main Street area during the event.

Maine Maple Sunday is always celebrated the fourth Sunday of March. This year it coincides with Easter on March 27. Many Maine maple sugar producers will open their doors to the public to demonstrate how maple syrup is made. Some will also offer tours, food, meals, and exhibits. Locally there are participating farms and sugarhouses in Greenwood, Waterford, Hebron, Sweden, and Sumner. You can find hours and activities listed at www.mainemapleproducers.com. Try not to miss this event because of the holiday. It is a perfect way to mark the beginning of spring.

Spring! dodged other storm and hopefully it was the last one for this season. New England has been spared serious *storms this winter, contrary to other parts of the country. My heart does go out to all who lost family and/or everything. It is sad to see what so many in our nation are suffering from right now. So, please, reject all the hate and violent talk from candidates, no matter which party, for all already are suffering. Remember, united we stand, divided we fall. Sorry again if this offends anyone. You can let me know by calling 507-1008 or e-mail heinrichcracker@gmail.com.

The first floor needed leveling in places, up to about 10 inches in one corner. He reused the barn board he had removed from the upper floors.

"Some floor areas are 4 inches thick as a result of repurposing the existing wood," he said.

LeGault then put down an authentic hickory floor in the 42 by 70 foot area in order to provide the best dance surface and a clean surface to protect the brides' gowns, he said.

The barn now hosts weddings from May through October. Although it's not air conditioned for summer, LeGault said shading from the nearby tall pine trees combined with a good fan system keep the interior comfortable on warm days.

While weddings are the primary functions hosted at the barn, LeGault also offers it for family reunions, anniverary parties and corporate gather-

From the TWISI archives: Ladies, it's time to take your Easter bonnet out of storage and dust it off. Iron out your pretty Easter dress and don't forget to dig your white gloves

Well, you're not alone. Those Easter traditions are not practiced very much any longer. In fact, fewer and fewer people even attend church on Easter Sunday.

I certainly don't have an Easter bonnet. I do on occasion wear a hat, but my hats are more of the baseball cap variety or knit type that can cover my ears on a cold winter day. I do not wear these hats to

As for white gloves, I'm not even sure that you can buy them any longer. I haven't seen any in the stores in years. But, that was not always the case.

As I recall, J. J. Newberry had a pretty decent selection of Easter bonnets and dresses for little girls and yes, they did have white gloves. One year when there must have been a few extra dollars in the family budget I even got an Easter coat with a matching pocketbook. I think there is a black and white picture of me in that outfit somewhere in the her wear a bonnet. I remember thinking that she actually stuck the hatpins into her head. I was grateful that my bonnet tied under my chin and was not looking forward to the day when I would have to stick hatpins in my head.

I never did reach the point of sticking hatpins anywhere. I did wear a pretty hat on my 13th Easter, but I didn't use hatpins. Perhaps I should have as the hat blew off my head and landed in a stream next to the church.

That was the first time I was allowed to wear nylons, a garter belt and 1" heels. All would have been okay if I had just let that hat become one with nature, but I was sure I could retrieve it without a problem.

Being the first time on 1" heels I was a bit unsteady as I climbed down a steep bank to the stream and lost my footing, broke one of the heels, snagged the nylons and landed in the stream.

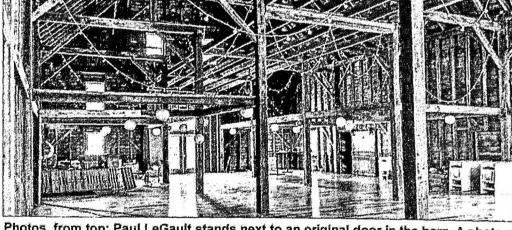

I did save the hat though and showed up at church a bit wet and disheveled with mud on my face, gloves and hat. I suspect that I was crying too, but I don't remember that.

That was the last time I wore an Easter hat or bonnet of any kind. Not so much because of a bad experience with the stream, but because hats and bonnets were disappearing from the pews on Easter Sunday.

I'm not too apt to wear an Easter hat now, but I do think it's kind of sad that they are a thing of the past. I don't think there is even an Easter parade any longer and no one is writing a sonnet about anyone's Easter bonnet these days.

Life was a lot simpler in those days and people went to church on Easter Sunday because it meant something to them.

A lot has changed since I was a little girl, but the way I see it I can still wish all of you a Happy Easter and you can put that bee in your bonnet, Easter or

From the Town Office

Citizens of the Town of Hanover are encouraged to submit their nominations for the Office of Select Board Member. Richard Stratton will be finishing up his term this year and will not run for re-election. Please contact the Town Office if you wish to serve or if you wish to nominate a candidate. Nominations may be submitted by contacting the Town Office prior to the Annual Town Meeting which takes place in October. Thank you, Richard for your years of service to the Town of Hanover.

Citizens are invited to meet with the Town Assessor to review their property assessments on Saturday, April 9 from 9 to 10 a.m. at the Town Office. No appointment is needed.

The Town's dog licensing deadline has passed. The fine for renewals after the Dec. 31, 2015 deadline is $25. Animal Control Officer, Ozzie Hart, will be notified of any currently unlicensed dogs, A visit by the Animal Control Officer will result in additional substantial fines. You are strongly advised to please license your dog if you have not already done so.

The Town Office will be open from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Friday, April 15 and 22 due to Deputy Clerk Ellie Andrews' knee surgery. Thank you for your understanding in this matter.

Good luck, Ellie.

The garden displays were inspiring, and made me wish I had enough time and energy to create something similar (or maybe enough money to pay someone else to do it for me), but I'm not really much of a flower gardener. I'll be lucky just to get around to raking the sunflower seed shells off the crocuses outside my kitchen window, and maybe planting some geraniums in the window boxes at camp,

Among the 45 or so people who went on the bus trip were my Locke's Mills "neighbor" (we're all neighbors in the village) Crystal Lake and her three sisters, Jeannine Wing, Marilyn Howe, and Theresa Koskela, The former Hebert sisters were obviously enjoying spending time together, laughing a lot and referring to themselves as "the Queens."

As we were waiting for the bus to leave the show, they told me the story behind that name. There were five girls in their family, and after losing first their mom, Rowena Dunham, in 2014, then their older sister, Dolly Olson, last year, they realized that life is short and uncertain, and the remaining Hebert women should get together once a month. At one of their gatherings, they were playing cards, and when they took turns cutting the deck, each of the four sisters cut to a queen. The odds of such a thing happening are infinitesimal, so I have to think someone was sending them a posi-

The Local Hub is closed for renovations this week, and plans to reopen on Monday, March 28. They have built up a very loyal clientele and many people will be eagerly awaiting their reopening.

The Facebook "Journey on the Back Roads of Maine" shares photographs, both old and new, from all over the state. A few days ago, they shared a photo of the schoolhouse on the Bird Hill Road as it appeared in 1890. When, out of curiosity, I was poking around on the Internet to find out the last year that classes were held there (the answer is 1981), I found a Sun Journal news story written by Jane Chandler in 1985 that detailed an effort that year by a group calling itself the Mt. Abram Mercantile Association (although unaffiliated with Mt. Abram Ski Resort) to purchase the building and turn it into a nightclub. A special town meeting had been set to determine the fate of the old school. I was living on Bird Hill at the time (as a resident of Bethel, not Greenwood), but I must have been oblivious to local current events. I don't remember hearing about the outcome, but I assume voters rejected the plan.

low-key here. We only got a dusting although it looked like it might snow in earnest for a while Monday. I was glad although it snowed enough to get the pain up. Guess that is what I can expect from now on. I have to just get used to it. At least it is getting warmer every other day. The snow now won't last and of that I am glad.

Prime Time Ski Club news

It looks like winter isn't done yet, at least at Sunday River ski area, Last week's warm temperatures and sunny days created typical spring skiing conditions but weekend temps in the 20s and 30s allowed the mountain's snowmakers to cover 10 trails with fresh snow and the groomers to lay down a nice corduroy finish. And the snowmakers and groomers claim they are not done yet. Despite this renewed chance to experience winter ski conditions again, a number of Prime Time Ski Club members have finished skiing for the season, Some members with seasonal homes have left and members who day ski have become fewer and fewer.

However, some of our diehard skiers are still around and happy to ski with anyone 50 years or older who wants to meet up with them. Please note that when North Peak Lodge is inaccessible, like the other day when the Chondola was on wind hold and the connector trail from the top of the North Peak lift was roped off, or if the lodge is closed, club members meet either at the Mahoosuc Room at South Ridge Lodge around 8:30 a.m. to get to the lifts at 9 a.m. or at Barker Lodge around 10 a.m.

At our last potluck dinner of the season last week, thank-you cards for the mountain's groomer and snowmaking crews were signed by members who wanted to express their appreciation for a job welldone in keeping our members skiing during this non-winter. And speaking of a job well-done, in a recently published article on www.SeniorsSkiing.com, an online magazine for the 50+ skier and snowboarder, the Prime

Time Ski Club was mentioned as one of the great assets for seniors who ski Sunday River. The article states, "For seniors on a fixed income and liberated schedule, a top place to ski in the East is Sunday River, ME. That is for three reasons, First, it is huge... Second, Boyne Resorts has done a great job modernizing lifts and focusing on snowmaking and grooming, keeping trails in good shape, even in low-snow years, Finally, everyone who works here is very friendly, so you have nice people looking after you."

The online article goes on to say, "One great asset here for seniors is the 100+ member Prime Time Ski Club (motto "You'll Never ski alone!") for those over 50. Meet up any weekday morning...and have a fun group of people to ski with." The write-up is a nice tribute to Sunday River as well as the Prime Time Ski Club, The article also mentions the Prime Time Ski Club weekly Bethel Citizen column and gives readers a link to the club's website where there is an archive of these columns. As a bonus for the curious, the online article also mentions this column writer by name. So check out the www.SeniorsSkiing.com site for ski news, advice on destinations, gear, health and a nostalgic look at ski history and heroes. Subscribing to the site is free and includes special offers, discount information and updates on what other seniors are doing to optimize their skiing and riding experiences. You can also check out www.primetimeskiclub. com for a list of activities and previous newspaper columns. Hope you will join us on the slopes for a few last turns.

Legion baseball news

Jackson-Silver Post 68 announced that the Post will again be a sponsor of American Legion Senior Baseball. The Post has sponsored teams for several years in Legion Zone 2, which incorporates Western and Central Maine.

Hakala and The Legion feel this is a great opportunity for these young athletes to be afforded an opportunity to continue their baseball involvement between high school and college. This allows them an opportunity to fulfill their athletic skills, enhance good sportsmanship and enjoy social interplay. The 2016 team will again be coached by Bob Remington, who has done an exceptional job along with his coaching staff. This year's recruitment of players (which is still in progress) includes students from Gould Academy, Telstar, Dirigo and Mountain

Raymond Hakala, Post Commander of Valley Schools. Those interested in playing may contact Bob Remington at 890-9161 or Ryan Palmer at 357-6603.

Commander Hakala said the Legion is a 501c(3) non-profit organization. Therefore, all of the expenses for the teams: equipment, uniforms, umpire fee's, insurance, travel expense and incidental expenses have to be financed by fundraising and private donations.

The 2016 annual operating budget is between $2,500 and $4,000. So, the Post is reaching out to private institutions, parents, private citizens and any other organization which would give financial aid for this most worthwhile cause. The ultimate goal is to enhance each athlete's confidence, self-esteem and athletic notential as a participant. Donations may be made directly to Jackson-Silver Post 68, P.O. Box 178, Locke Mills, ME 04255.

"Move it or lose it" presentation lively audience participation program with differ- conditions. Foster holds ent types and ways to exercise, will be presented by Betsey Foster, Karen Swanson and Patti Truman, on Thursday, April 7, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the Bethel Congregational Church, 32 Church Street, Bethel. The program is sponsored by To Your Health of Western Mountains Senior College

Dr. Catherine Chamberlin, a physician at the Bethel Family Health Center and an avid fitness supporter, will introduce the participants. She will also add her thoughts on the importance of fitness.

Audience members will learn from local experts about the benefits of several different ways to exercise. The audience will be therapy, Counselor and invited to join the fun of trying these methods.

Betsey Foster, who has a Master's Degree in Public Health from Boston University, studied Tai Chi and Qigong from leaders in the field for the past 28 years. She will explain and demonstrate the art

She has a retreat-like studio space in her home, as well as offering the chair yoga classes at the Methodist Church annex. She is also available for private sessions.

This program is sponsored as a community service by To Your Health of WMSC with the collaboration of Bethel Family Health Center and MSAD 44/Continuing Education. Admission is free and there will be light refreshments. For more information, call R. Tifft at 824-2053.

Simard named On Snow program director at Gould

Gould Academy nounced recently the promotion of Kurt Simard to Director of On Snow Programs.

Simard has served as the school's Alpine Program Director and Head Alpine Coach since 2007, and recently took on the additional role of interim Director of On Snow Programs after the search for a new director was announced this past August.

"Kurt's breadth of experience as a competitor, coach, and leader is exactly who we want championing our On Snow Programs," said Matt Ruby, Head of School for Gould Academy.

Effective immediately. Simard will oversee and develop all competitive and noncompetitive onsnow programming for Gould Academy, an extensive job that includes: the Gould Academy Competition Program (GACP) - a fulltime and weekendonly partnership program between Gould and Sunday River that supports highlevel alpine, Nordic, snowboarding and freeride/ freestyle athletes looking to compete throughout the United States (fulltime) and regionally (weekendonly); the Gould Academy Prep Alpine, Prep Snowboarding, and Prep Nordic teams, whose fulltime studentathletes compete throughout Maine and New England; a host of noncompetitive programming for fulltime students that includes the Rugrats instruction program, the Maine Adaptive instruction program, a learn to ski and snowboard program, and the only nationally recognized high school ski patrol program in the country; and the Winter Term program for seventh and eighthgrade students whose students compete at their highest levels in alpine, Nordic, snowboarding and freeride/freestyle from November through March.

Gould began the search for a Director of On Snow Programs by enlisting the help of a search committee whose members included noted alumni, leaders within the ski industry and Gould Academy Competition Program, as well a school trustee and parents, Candidates from all over the United States applied. In addition to reporting to the Head of School for Gould Academy, Simard will also report to the VP of Skiers Services for Sunday River for all matters pertaining to the GACP weekendonly program.

Coach Simard brings a versatile coaching perspective to Gould, having worked with gifted athletes of all ages, from the junior development level to Division I collegiate level to placement on the U.S. Ski Team. During his eightyear tenure as Head Coach for the University of New Hampshire's Division I Women's Alpine Team, he coached the Wildcat Women to an NCAA National Giant Slalom Championship in 2006 and the entire Alpine Team to a secondplace overall finish that same year. His athletes also attained an impressive 19 AllAmerican Award honors as well as placements, to the U.S. Ski Team. Kurt recently worked with the US Ski Team during the . Beaver Creek World Cup. races this past December. . Originally from Auburn, Maine Coach Simard grew up ski racing. He participated in the U.S. Ski Team's Development Program, graduated from Green Mountain Valley School in Vermont, and captained the University of New Hampshire's Division I Men's Alpine Team.

After college he began his coaching career at . Sunday River with Gould Academy. Noted for his enthusiastic love of athletics and ability to lead, his accomplishments have been recognized by his peers as he has been twice named the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association (EISA) Coach of the Year (2005 and 2006). In 2007, Coach Simard's return to Gould was both a homecoming and milestone. He met his wife, Lauren, at Sunday River, and together they have three daughters: Madeline '16. Cameron, and Sophie.

Sunday River Resort in snowmaking competition

Sunday River Resort has been nominated for the HKD IAM a Snowmaker award, a competition hosted by Ski Area Management Magazine, according to a press

This new industry competition uses videos to highlight each nominated resorts' snowmaking crew, and the winner is decided by an online vote, open now through March 31.

Resorts nominated for the HKD I AM a Snowmaker award demonstrate exceptional snowmaking capabilities, ranging from on-hill equipment to experience levels within each team. The award aims to highlight the underdogs of the industry, and to showcase the comradery of each resort's snowmaking department. HKD Snowmakers, a North American manufacturer and supplier of energy-efficient snowmaking technology, is the title sponsor of the event and provides much of Sunday River's snowmaking equipment.

In addition to the full-length video, each nominee was asked to submit a short trailer and to create a profile about their snowmakers. Sunday River is joined in the competition by Stowe and Okemo Mountain of Vermont, Cataloochee Ski Area of North Carolina, Copper Mountain of Colorado, and Whistler Black-comb of British Columbia.

Sunday River started its 2015/16 winter season with a snowmaking test on Sept. 22, and opened for skiing and snowboarding on Oct.19. Despite warmer temperatures throughout the winter, the resort credits its ability to consistently offer the most open terrain in the Northeast to the efforts of its snowmaking team, according to the release. To date, the resort has recorded 83 days of snowmaking during its season.

Interested voters can cast ten votes per day for the HKD I AM a Snowmaker award by visiting saminfo.com.

Volunteer advocate training for Helpline

Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Services is looking for volunteer advocates to respond to its 24 hour crisis and support line and make a difference in the lives of people affected by sexual assault, childhood sexual abuse, stalking or sexual harassment.

Volunteer advocates listen and provide support, information, and referrals to people calling for assistance. Calls can require supporting someone through a difficult memory of childhood sexual abuse, providing support and education about available resources, or accompanying a caller to a local hospital or police station when the survivor chooses to use these resources.

Volunteer advocates receive extensive training and support to prepare them for effectively responding to callers. The training provides insight and information in the areas of sexual harassment, stalking, child sexual abuse, sexual assault and the challenges faced by survivors and their supporters. Volunteers are taught the various options and resources available for survivors of all ages in our communities and learn crisis intervention and advocacy skills with special emphasis placed on the importance of self-care.

Volunteer advocates are notified of calls that need to be responded to through their cell phones from the answering service, allowing them to be on call from their homes and choose from a variety of scheduling options. A stipend is available for volunteer advocates who cover evening, weekend and holiday shifts.

Volunteer advocates must be over the age of 18, empathetic and dependable with access to reliable transportation. All potential volunteers must complete the training and a screening process which includes criminal and DHHS background checks. No prior experience is necessary.

Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Services serves Androscoggin, Oxford and Franklin counties. Services include the 24 hour help line, accompaniment to local hospitals, law enforcement Wednesday taken from and court proceedings; individual advo- AARP's Fraud Alert ancacy; and support groups. Savannah Vermette (left) of Greenwood, a senior at Telstar High School, has been selected to receive the 2016 Principal's Award, Principal Cheryl Lang (right) has announced. The award, sponsored by the Maine Principal's Association, is given in recognition of a high school senior's academic achievement and citizenship.

"For the short period of one and a half years I have gotten to know Savannah at Telstar High School, she has distinguished herself as a positive and active leader in the classroom, on the playing field, and both in the school and the community," Lang said in making the award. "She very much deserves this recognition."

Vermette, Lang, and other award winners and their principals will attend an Honors Luncheon at the Spectacular Event Center in Bangor on Saturday, April 2.

The Honors Luncheon recognizes these outstanding students with the presentation of an individual plaque and the awarding of five $1,000. scholarships in the names of Horace O. McGowan and Richard W. Tyler. McGowan and Tyler were former Maine principals and executive directors of the Association.

An additional five $1,000 scholarships will be presented through the efforts of the MPA Scholarship Golf TournaFraud and Scams: How to Protect Yourself

Crocus: Harbinger of Spring

This winter has been so mild that I feel that I am already perched on the edge of the next season. The brook has never been completely frozen and all through the winter I have had the pleasure of listening to flowing waters whenever I am snow shoeing or walking around my property. The birds and other animals can easily bathe (yes birds do bathe even in the winter if the temperatures are

Around the foundation of the house and next to my rock garden the sun melts the snow quickly and bare ground keeps appearing after every storm. Every time I am outdoors my eyes seem to seek out these spots to see if I can glimpse a blade of green. These are the first places that I usually look for crocuses in late April but this year I am already searching for them. Although I have clumps of crocus scattered around the house in areas where snow lingers I am still amazed how all the crocuses, including those that push up through the snow, are putting on a colorful show. I have saffron yellow crocuses that are barely an inch high that make a stunning buttery bouquet (not to be confused with the saffron crocus which cannot survive in Maine). Other colors around here include lavender, striped purple, violet and white goblet shaped blossoms. In addition I have the tall deep purple crocus with brightly colored stamens that bring out the tiny mud bees who live in the ground and swarm around all crocus blossoms (some are sweetly scented) but seem to prefer the deep purple crocus if given a choice. All are gathering pollen as they move from flower to flower. I have a special affection for these tiny bees that often land on my arms or tangle themselves in my hair who could sting but choose not to.

There is also something about the sight of crocuses blooming on barren or snow covered ground that seems almost miraculous - these diminutive flowers herald the approach of spring and color after months of bleak monochromatic gray and white with few evergreens for contrast (once the forests had an abundance of conifers but now the mountains around here are almost stripped bare). This year I am feeling impatient because of the mild weather, but I suspect that the crocuses will shoot their grass -like variegated spikes above ground at the usual

Crocuses are a genus of flowering plants grown from corms. Today they are native to the islands in the Aegean, Central Asia, China, central and southern Europe, North Africa, and the Middle East. They can grow from sea level to alpine tundra in woodland, scrub Many of the 90 species are cultivated for their flowers including the saffron cro-cus or Crocus sativus. The precious saffron spice is obtained from the three deep orange stigmas inside the exquisite violet blue flower. From Crete the saffron crocus apparently spread to India by way of ancient trade routes. The first crocuses seen in the Netherland were from corms brought back from Constantinople in the 1500's. From snow crocuses to giant Dutch crocuses, all just 2 -4 inches tall, the colors can range from pink, mauve, red, orange, yellow, purple and blue.

True crocuses can bloom in the spring, the fall, or even during the winter. The label "autumn crocus" can be confusing because there is a lily that looks similar to a crocus that also blooms in the fall and is called by the same name. However, it is easy to tell the difference between the two because true crocuses have three stamens and the small lilies have six. These small corms also naturalize so not only are they perennial but they also can spread into large clumps. Alas, squirrels dig and eat the corms as do voles (with both these rodent populations exploding it is a wonder that I have any crocuses at all). On the bright side deer and rabbits rarely bother these delicate flowers.

Crocus sativus is grown to harvest the precious saffron spice and was first documented in the Mediterranean, most notably on the islands of Crete and Santorini. Paintings showing the saffron crocus being gathered by young girls appear on Minoan Frescos on both of these islands. The Crocus sativus flowers that decorate wall frescos and clay vessels date back to 2000 BCE. There are detailed scenes of young girls picking these flowers on rocky hillsides in natural surroundings, and others that show a regular pattern of crocus plant clusters indicating that cultivation of this species was part of the agriculture practiced by the Greek Minoan culture.

Young girls harvested the saffron crocus flowers in the autumn, These flowers were considered to be sacred and the girls offered the crocuses to the goddess of vegetation. The frescos clearly depict the crocus as an essential symbol and flower used in ceremonies celebrating a girl's transition from childhood to womanhood.

Most folks at least vaguely familiar with the Greek myth of Persephone and Demeter know that in the fall Persephone was gathering crocuses (or some other flower like a poppy or narcissus) when Hades abducted her into the underworld. When she was returned to the upper world in the spring yellow crocus were said to have burst through the ground at her feet, (Because this abduction occurs in the fall it is probable that the flower Persephone picked really was the saffron crocus, Crocus sativus, rather than a narcissus or poppy because these latter two bloom in the spring or the summer respectively). Even Demeter, Persephone's mother heard the crocuses cry out "The Maiden is coming!" The pure yellow cro-cus was probably the wild Golden Crocus (C. chrysanthus) that is native to Greece. blooms while the snow is still on the ground celebrating Persephone's return to the upper world and the coming of spring. Some mythologists believe that Lego League and several organizations this story was created to explain the dying back of plants in the fall and their return in the spring.

The crocus goddess had an important role in Crete; she was often identified as Aurora, the Goddess of the Dawn. This goddess was seen as the animating spirit of all life. Aurora harmonized the elements of fire and water. She was both first light and the early morning dew dwelling at the edge of dawn. A sprinkling of saffron on the ground invoked the protection of this goddess.

From a mythological perspective the crocus was considered to be a sacred flower, and one associated with the changing seasons so it's no surprise that so many of us in the north look forward to the coming of the magical multicolored crocus, her bees, and spring!

On March 15 the Telstar Middle School hosted a Science Expo. Elementary, middle and high school students presented science fair experiments, demonstrations or their science research. In addition, there were students from Mahoosuc Kid's Association (MKA) presenting their science. Many in the district community came to experience science! The vision is to offer students K-12 and community members a chance to showcase science demonstrations, how science works, and science fair experiments. For the first time in many years, all middle school students did a science experiment. As students progress through their school years and participate at the science expo, they will be able to branch out and be involved with BioMimicry or a Rube Goldberg type challenge, create or improve an invention, or discover science for themselves. The Bryant Pond 4H Camp presented potential and kinetic energy roller coaster and a buoyancy hands on buoyancy activity. Jim Chandler had a great display of fossils gathered from the areas in the east country. Holly from the Maine Mad Scientist offered a display of light and sight activities. The folks from Wildlife Encounters shared some intriguing animals! Students from MKA's Lego League shared their Lego robots. Kristy Hanscom, a high schooler had several hands on activities to teach science concepts. Several students from Woodstock Elementary shared some whale research, dissolving eggshells experiment and food producing electricity.

All who came to the science expo were asked to vote for their top 3 science projects and the reason why they were nominated. The reasons varied, but referred to the presentation, the display, the scientific method, or uniqueness of the project. The Viewer's Choice winners are as follows:

8th grade:

1st Emily Fraser; 2nd Lucas Malley; 3rd Jaxen Call

7th grade

1st Ava Masteroini; 2nd Emallee Coffin; 3rd Meadow Wind 6th grade -

1st Lily Wind; 2nd Maddy Bean; 3rd Jake Chiasson; 3rd Maggie Black; 3rd Ben Godomsky (3-way tie)

We would like to thank the many folks who came to the science expo either as participants or viewers, the MKA for their support and the custodians for helping with logistics! Looking forward to next year's science expo with more students with their projects or demonstrations K-12.

MARY H. TULLY

Mary Heath Tully entered into eternal rest on March 18, 2016. She was born Nov. 17, 1935 in West Bethel. Mary graduated from Gould Academy in 1954 and attended Gorham State Teacher's College. She was a member of St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Marblehead, Mass. She served as a docent at the Peabody Essex Museum in Salem, Mass. She was also an enthusiastic member of The Beach Club and the Busy Bee Society.

She is survived by her son, Jack Heath and his wife, Patty; her daughter Marjory Wentworth and her husband Peter; five grandchildren: Margaret and Emma Heath, Hunter, Oliver and Taylor Wentworth; her brother Joseph Kneeland and her sisters Jane Smith, Gloria Young and Suzanne Grover and their families.

She was preceded in death by her parents Libby Goodridge Kneeland and Roland Merle Kneeland, her sister Beverly Morrell, her brothers Frederick and Reginald Kneeland, her first husband John Andrew Heath and her second husband Robert Michael Tully.

Mary Tully was blessed with many friends of all ages, from her youth in Bethel to her later years at Sandpiper Village in Mt. Pleasant, S.C. Previously, she lived at Schooner Estates in Auburn where she made dozens of friends and organized a fashion show. Known for her generous spirit, she remained close to her friends on the North Shore of Boston, where she lived most of her adult life. Mary's family would like to thank all her caregivers at Hospice of Charleston, Sandpiper Rehabilitation Center and East Cooper Hospital in Mt. Pleasant, S.C.

A memorial service will be held in Marblehead, Mass, later this spring. Condolences may be sent

Mary Butler, 74 of Union, passed away on March 21, 2016 at the Sussman House in Rockport. Mary was born March 19, 1942 in Bethel, Maine, the daughter of Paul Head and Olive Akers Head, Mary graduated from Gould Academy in 1961. After high school she went to the seminary for one year in Bangor. While at the seminary she worked at local nursing homes. She met Howard and they married in 1964 in Bethel. After Howard graduated they moved to Boston where she worked at a supermarket. They then moved back to Union after their first child was born. Mary then worked as a cook at a nursing home, which she still did until she became a caregiver for her in-laws,

Mary was an avid golfer, a choir director of the Peoples United Methodist Church, den mother for the Cub Scouts, taught piano lessons, and served on a scholarship committee for high school students. She enjoyed annual trips to the Outer Banks of North Carolina and playing bridge with friends.

Mary is predeceased by her parents and brothers, John Head and Arthur Head.

Mary is survived by her husband, Howard of Union, daughter, Lisa Reibel and husband Michael of Waldoboro, son Matthew Butler of Owls Head, brother David Head and wife Fran of Bethel, grandchildren, Amanda Reibel of Bath and Meagan Grierson and husband Ryan of Waldoboro, also several nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Visiting hours will be Sunday, March 27, 2016 from 5-7 p.m. at the Hall Funeral Home in Waldoboro. A celebration of Mary's life will be held at the Peoples United Methodist Church in Union at 1:00 p.m. on Monday, March 28, 2016.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Mary's name to the Sussman House, 6 Glen Cove Drive, Rockport, Maine 04856.

Wildlife Surveys and Public Meetings

Recently, the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife (MDIFW) published the results of a survey they had contracted to Responsive Management. The results of that survey are found by visiting the MDIFW website. Across the top menu bar, click on "Wildlife." Near the center of that page, click on "2016 Big Game Management Plan Update." In the far righthand column there is a link to the "2016 Maine Big Game Public Survey Report (PDF). (Yeah, I know. It's not easy to navigate.) I'm not a huge fan of surveys because they are easily manipulated to give researchers desired results - much like polls, which all of us are probably sick of already in this election term. In this survey, you can read each question. exactly as it appeared to respondents. Decide for yourselves.

Everybody likes wildlife. Everybody likes to see wildlife. Therefore, it's important to become involved in efforts to conserve healthy populations animals and plants in the wild. Here's your chance.

The survey tells Maine residents that over onehalf of the general population is "extremely" interested in wildlife and nearly 80 percent enjoy seeing that wildlife on their property, Another 20 percent like wildlife on their property as long as it doesn't create problems. Here's an example of one question and the results that made be giggle, mostly because the answers are self-perceptions of one's knowledge. The question asks if respondents "know a great deal or a moderate amount" about deer, bear, moose and turkeys. Depending on the species and the demographics of the respondents, anywhere from 44 percent to 95 percent of respondents know a great deal or a moderate amount about all four species.

Hunting, trapping and fishing are proven, viable tools to manage healthy populations of game animals. There are certain cascading effects that result from population controls. The Maine survey tells us that 85 percent of Maine resident "strongly support" legal hunting.

There are some other interesting results of this survey. Of the four Big Game species, deer, moose, bear and turkey, most hunters take their prey for the meat. It might surprise a few people to learn that hunting for a "trophy" is nearly non-existent within responses.

This survey is part of a larger plan that the MDIFW has in store. The Department is mandated to devise game management plans every 15 years. New plans are due this year and MDIFW decided to get as much of the public involved in the process. As a result, there are a series of public meetings and an opportunity to respond online beginning this month. Check the MDIFW website for a link to where you can respond.

The public meetings began at three separate locations. Please consider the MDIFW website for times, places and agendas.

Public meetings, controlled by government agents, are as misleading as polls and surveys, Keep this in mind when attending meetings or answering questions.

Managing wildlife is a scientific process, Listening to social demands and reacting by changing scientific management plans is problematic. However, the law states that wildlife is a resource of all the people and all people who want can become involved. Part of wildlife management is how much the people can tolerate.

DOUG GREENLEAF

BROOKS BROS. AND ALL OF ITS EMPLOYEES, PAST AND PRESENT, WOULD LIKE TO REMEMBER OUR FRIEND AND CO-WORKER DOUG GREENLEAF. TO MANY OF OUR CUSTOMERS, DOUG WAS BROOKS BROS., ALWAYS READY TO HELP SOMEONE. HE MADE EACH DAY FUN AND MADE EVERYONE SMILE JUST A LITTLE BIT MORE. HIS HUMOR

AND HIS PRESENCE WILL BE SORELY MISSED. RARELY HAS ONE PERSON TOUCHED SO MANY PEOPLE IN SO MANY WAYS AS DOUG DID. OUR THOUGHTS AND PRAYERS GO OUT TO HIS FAMILY AND FRIENDS.

In Loving Memory of Richard Kimball, Sr. 7/16/29-4/10/12 and Richard Kimball, Jr. 10/26/63-3/15/89 They say there is a reason They say time will heal But neither time nor reason Will change the way we feel. For no one knows the heartache That lies behind our smiles. No one knows how many times We have broken down and cried. We want to tell you something, So there won't be any doubt, You're so wonderful to think of, But so hard to be without.
